February 2018

Over February and into March we will be focusing our sermons on the book of 1 Thessalonians, written by Paul to the church in Thessalonica. There is much to be learned from this letter and indeed the lives of the people who made up the congregation on the receiving end. This Thessalonian church is summarized by one commentator as:

“A Church worth Imitating”

What a powerful and challenging statement to have written about your church. If we were to honestly reflect on our lives and our church would we use such a bold statement today? As we go through this series, our hope is that we will too be challenged and shaped, so that people would look at our lives and see in us “something” worth imitating. This is not to say that we will be perfect, nor will our church do everything to perfection, but rather that as individuals and as a church, that our steps and our hearts would be so close to that of our Heavenly Father that we would shine brightly in an ever darkening world. And that light would cause others to question, to seek, to imitate!
